Carl Vinson Research Assistantship in Public Sector Economics

The Department of Economics and the Carl Vinson Institute of Government at the University of Georgia invite applications for the Carl Vinson Research Assistantship in Public Sector Economics. The recipient will pursue a course of study leading to the PhD in Economics degree and serve as a research assistantship in the Research Division at the Institute of Government. The total 12-month stipend is approximately $16,000 plus waiver of tuition. (The recipient must pay the University of Georgia health and activity fees.) The Carl Vinson Assistantship is renewable, based upon degree progress and work performance, for a maximum of two years. Subject to satisfactory progress and budgetary approval, the Economics Department will provide assistantship support for a fourth year.

The Carl Vinson Institute of Government, one of the largest units of its kind in the nation, specializes in state and local government policy analysis, applied research, training, and technical assistance. The Carl Vinson Research Assistantship provides the opportunity for study in an academic environment with strong research and public service traditions. The deadline for applications is March 1. To apply, include with your application materials for the PhD program in Economics a statement of your interest in the Carl Vinson Assistantship and qualifications.
